PEACE AND EDUCATION - VISION 2030

Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2030 is fully living in positive peace and is a global example of societal transformation through educational systems.

- We envision Bosnia and Herzegovina in 2030 as a society where education serves as the foundation for building positive peace, mutual understanding, and social justice. In this society, schools, universities, and all educational institutions become spaces of transformation, dialogue, and hope — places where critical thinking, empathy, and solidarity are cultivated.
- Education is grounded in universal values of peace, human rights, nonviolence, and respect for diversity. Positive peace is not merely the absence of violence, but the presence of just structures, equal opportunities, social inclusion, and active citizen participation in the creation of a more just society.
- In such an educational environment, students, educators, and learners of all ages develop a deep awareness of their role in shaping a fair, democratic, and compassionate society. Critical pedagogues and top professionals empower young people to recognize and challenge injustices, guiding them through processes of collaborative learning, participation, and responsible action.
- By 2030, education in Bosnia and Herzegovina will no longer be just a process of knowledge transmission, but a space for shared learning, the construction of positive peace, and societal transformation.
